

The only thing I find wrong with this one is it isn't looking at the primary the FCC dropped the code requirement to 5 words per minute. That is that there are some individuals that simply can not pass the 8 to 10 word per minute barrier. They should not be denied the highest class operator license because of a stigma in their makeup.